FIREMEN AID HOARD QUEST

Enough Government Supplies to Give Every One in City 15.44 Pounds-Inspection of Warehouses Ordered-Police Continue Survey.

Father Knickerbocker will embark on the biggest experiment in municipal store keeping ever tried when he places on sale, probably next Monday morning, in 183 public school houses in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond Boroughs, 46,328 tons of surplus army supplies, purchased from the War Department at an expense of $6,244,-610. The start of the sale may be delayed beyond Monday, but ample notice will be given the public in that event.

The weight in pounds of the supplies ordered by the city is 92,656,-000, sufficient to supply every man, woman and child in Greater New York with 15.44 pounds of nourishing food at prices considerably below the market. Deputy Commissioner of Markets Edwin J. O'Malley said to-day that the proposed sale has already had its effect on the retail trade and has led to a marked reduction in poices in many sections of the city.
